GO RIGHT AT IT.

Friends And Neighbors In Cloverport Will Show You How.

Get at the root of the trouble. Rubbing an aching back may relieve it.

But it won't cure it. You must reach the root of it—the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills go right at it. Reach the cause, relieve the pain. They cure, too, so Cloverport people say.

Geo. F. Megerle, River St., Cloverport, Ky., says: "For three months I was unable to do any work on account of my kidneys being disordered. The passages of the kidney secretions were painful and my feet became so badly swollen that I was unable to get on my shoes. There was a dull ache in the small of my back, which extended into my head and although I tried a number of different remedies, I was unable to find relief. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills came to my attention and I procured a supply at Fisher's drug store. I used them according to directions and in six weeks I was entirely free from kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

ERROR MEANT DEATH.

Typesetters and Proofreaders on Chinese Paper Careful.

China, with all its vast population, boasts not quite two dozen daily papers, but among them are the two oldest papers in the world. The Kin Pao used to be considered by Europeans the oldest paper, but it has been issued a mere thousand years. The Tsing Pao, or Pekin News, was first published 500 years before the Norman conquest and has been issued without interruption for nearly 1,400 years. The Tsing Pao has the appearance of a yellow tattered magazine of twenty-four octavo pages, each page containing seven columns, consisting of seven "characters."

Two editions are published—an edition de luxe for the court and the upper classes at a cost of 24 cents a month, and another edition in paper and printing, costing 16 cents a month. It has a circulation of about 10,000 and is really the principal paper of China, chronicling the movements of the emperor and of the court and printing the ministerial reports. It is probably the most exact newspaper in the world. The punishment for an error in printing was until recently, at least, instant death.—New York Times.

It Saved His Leg.

Then Bucken's Arnica Salve cured it sound and well." Infallible for Skin Eruptions, Eczema, Salt Rheum, Boils, Fever Sores, Burns, Scalds, Cuts and Piles. 25c at Severs Drug Store.

The English Three R's.

We are constantly being misinformed by the foreigners, says Clarence Rook, and the Frenchman of whom the following story is told contrived to do us something less than justice.

He had been on a visit to this country in order to study at first hand the social manners of the English people. On returning to his native land he was asked by a friend whether he had discovered the meaning of the mysterious "Three R's."

"Oh, I found out what they were on the first day of my visit," said he. "And what are they, then?"

"Rippling, rotten and right-of-repelled," the triumphant Frenchman—London Mail.

This is the most dangerous time of the year to catch cold, and it is the hardest time to cure it. If you should take a cold, a few doses of Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup will not very promptly. Its laxative principle cures the cold by driving it from the system by a gentle but natural action of the bowels. Children especially like Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup as it tastes good, nearly like maple sugar. It is sold by all druggists.

Had Them Tested.

The legend and recovery of a $2,500 pearl necklace recall the story of a similar experience which a New York woman had after the last Old Guard her also mislaid her necklace when she arrived at her home, and the next day it was brought to her by a woman who had shared her carriage on the way home. Handling the necklace to her friend, the finder said: "So glad I found it. We always thought they were real."—New York Tribune.

A Lover's Envy

Henry Van Dyke in March Century

I envy every flower that blows
Beside the pathway where she goes,
And every bird that sings to her,
And every breeze that brings to her
The fragrance of the rose

I envy every poet's rhyme
That moves her heart at eventide,
And every tree that wears for her
Its brightest bloom, and bears for her
The fruitage of its prime.

I envy every southern night
That paves her path with moonbeams white,
And silvers all the leaves for her,
And in their shadow weaves for her
A dream of dear delight.

I envy none whose love requires
Of her a gift, a task that tries:
I only long to live to her,
I only ask to give to her
All that her heart desires.

LEE AT APPOMATTOX.

One of the Most Notable Scenes in the History of the War.

Men who saw the defeated general when he came forth from the chamber where he had signed the articles of capitulation say that he passed a moment as his eyes rested once more on the Virginia hills, snatched his hands together as though in some excess of inward agony, then mounted his gray horse, Traveler, and rode calmly away. If that was the very Gesteemane of his trials, yet he must have had then one moment of supreme, if chastened, joy. As he rode quietly down the lane leading from the scene of capitulation he passed into view of his men—of such as remained of them. The news of the surrender had got abroad, and they were waiting, grief-stricken and dejected, upon the hill-sides when they caught sight of their old commander on the gray horse. Then occurred one of the most notable scenes in the history of the war. In an instant they were about him, bare-headed, with tear wet faces, thronging him, kissing his hand, his boots, his saddle, weeping, cheering him amid their tears, shouting his name to the very skies. He said: "Men, we have fought through the war together, have done my best for you. My heart is too full to say more."—From "Robert E. Lee, the Southerner."

A Contractor.

DONALSONVILLE, GA., Jan. 20, 1909. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Birmingham, N. Y. Gentlemen:—About four years ago I suffered from kidney trouble and rheumatism in my hips. The pain across my back became so severe that I could hardly straighten up and could not walk without dragging my feet. I would urinate frequently and would have to rise two or three times during the night, causing me to suffer from loss of sleep. And with the pain I was all run down and began to lose flesh. I saw Swamp Root advertised and bought one bottle to try it. After taking it I felt better and could sleep all right at night. I continued to take it until I had taken four large bottles. I was entirely free from any pain in the back and began to gain in weight. I always recommend Swamp Root to my friends as I think the cure in my case remarkable.

Yours very truly,

M. H. HICKSON,

Donalsonville, Ga.

OBEYED THE DOCTOR.

Did His Best in Keeping a Watch Upon the Patient.

The late Dr. Drummond, the habitation poet, once related an amusing incident in the life of a French Canadian.

He was summering in Megantic county, Que., when, early one evening, he was visited by a young farmer named Ovide Leblanc.

"Bon soir, docteur," said Ovide by way of greeting. "Ma brudder Moise, heem ver' seck. You come on d'house for see heem, doe?"

Drummond, always kind hearted and obliging, complied with the request of Ovide and found the unfortunate Moise suffering from what he diagnosed as a fairly severe case of typhoid.

"Wishing to provide Moise with some medicine," said the doctor-poet, "I asked Ovide to accompany me back to the village. The prescription compounded, I proceeded to instruct Ovide. The dose was to be administered every three hours during the night, and, trying to be as brief, plain and explicit as possible, I said: 'Be sure and keep watch on Moise tonight and give him a teaspoonful of this in 9 o'clock, 12 o'clock and at 3 and 6 in the morning. Come and see me about 9 o'clock in the morning.'"

Ovide understood and departed. The following morning he again presented himself, and Drummond asked: "How's Moise? Did you do as I told you?"

"Ma brudder Moise, I tink he come better dan las' night," replied Ovide. "I give him de medicine, but I don't know de watch in d'night. I tink d'doctor cack—done what mak d'bee, deesturb for get up. I keep eet on bees cack all night. Tink eet do been good dat, but he d'watch. What you tink, doe?"—Harper's Weekly.

THE QUEEN BEE.

Her Household Service the Most Perfect in the World.

"We must go to the bee for the real solution of the servant question," said a housewife. "The queen bee's service is the most perfect in the world. Why, she even has servants who digest her food for her."

"The queen bee is so entirely occupied in egg laying—she lays 2,500 eggs, twice her own weight, daily—that all other things must be done for her."

"And so a corps of servants makes her toilet. This corps all day long cleans and brushes and polishes her person. It is as though her life were passed divinely in a beautiful parlor."

"Another corps of servants has charge of the air she breathes. The air must be the purest, that she may be the finest. So, standing in a circle about her, fanning with their wings, these bees make a living ventilating system."

"Her most important servants are perhaps her feeders. Their training may be said to begin before birth. They must be the choicest, brought by molded eggs, with glands in their heads for the reception of bee milk, the chosen predigestion food of the queen. They stand always at attention, presenting, like a brimming cup, their head glands, swollen with predigestion food, to the queen bee, sting her task of trying a drop every minute."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Hats as Aids to Matrimony.

"The wise woman is as careful about the choice of a hat as she is about the choice of a husband." The celebrated author who uttered this dictum may have exaggerated a little, but not much. And allow me, a woman, to tell you solemnly when I see street-car at the "Fifth" of my sex that often the cleverest among you chooses a wife for no better reason than that the woman thus selected has herself chosen a becoming hat.—Miss C. At a called term of the Breckenridge County Court, called and held in the court house in Hardinsburg, on Monday, March 15, 1909.

Present: Hon. H. DeH. Moorman, Judge of Breckenridge county, Ky.

It appearing to this court from reports of the County Supervisor of Roads and Bridges and other reliable sources that the high waters of the Ohio river and other smaller streams have done most extensive damage to a great number of bridges in this county—washing some entirely away, tearing away approaches and abutments of others and rendering many entirely unsafe for use; and it further appearing from personal knowledge and that gained from authoritative sources that the damage is so extensive that it cannot be met by the regular bridge fund, as it will amount to thousands of dollars; and it appearing that many of the steel or iron bridges of the county are very old and are dangerously effected by the combination of time, use and results of said high water—in order that the Fiscal court may fully and intelligently discharge its duty in the premises and take the proper action for the preservation of life and property and avert such catastrophes as have befallen some other counties because of the existence of similar conditions, hereby order and direct the Supervisor of roads and bridges of Breckenridge county to make a careful and complete investigation of the condition of each and all of the bridges of said county forthwith, reducing his findings to writing and that he submit the result of such examination in the form of a detailed report to the Fiscal court of Breckenridge county, on the first day of its April 1909, term, approximating the amount necessary to rebuild and repair the bridges of the county and pay accounts thus created and outstanding.

All citizens possessing knowledge of the damaged condition of any bridge

MIX THIS.

Prepare at Home By Shaking Ingredients Well in a Bottle.

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription, which is said to be a positive remedy for backache or kidney or bladder derangement, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well-known druggist here at home, when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic affections with splendid results, he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache, as it has a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleansing them the most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause sickness and suffering. Those of our readers who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

Settled Colds Are Always Dangerous.

CONSUMPTION BEGINS WITH A COLD

A Heavy Cold.
Samuel McKinley, 1509 Askew Ave., Kansas City, Mo., member of the Society of the United States Jewelry Auctioneers, writes:

"I can honestly say that I owe my life to Peruna. After some of the best doctors in the country gave me up and told me I could not live another month, Peruna saved me.
"Traveling from town to town, throughout the country, and having to go into all kinds of badly heated stores and buildings, sometimes standing up for hours at a time while plying my trade as auctioneer, it is only natural that I had colds frequently; so when this would occur I paid little attention to it, until last December, when I contracted a severe case, which, through neglect on my part, settled on my lungs.
"When almost too late, I began doctoring, but without avail, until I heard of Peruna. It cured me, so I cannot praise it too highly."

Nasal Catarrh, Coughs.
Mr. Emil Pickart, 310 Indiana Ave., Hammond, Ill., writes:

"I am entirely cured of catarrh of the nose, and my stomach is in good condition also. I only used about five bottles of your great medicine, although I had catarrh so bad and for so many years that I thought I wouldn't live much longer. I had to consult doctors right along. Now all my friends say I never looked as well as I do now."

"I can also say that it is a great remedy for coughs, because I give it to my children. I never will be without it. I used enough other medicine to know how valuable Peruna is.
"You are at liberty to use my name in spreading the merits of Peruna."

MR. CHARLES A. SCHAFER.

Settled on Lungs.
Mr. Charles A. Schafer, Nebraska City, Neb., Ex-President Local Brotherhood of Bookbinders, writes:

"I am pleased to give my experience with Peruna.
"Some years ago I contracted a heavy cold which settled in my body and finally resulted in catarrh trouble of the lungs and stomach.
"I tried many remedies, but found nothing effective until I tried Peruna. In a very few days I was feeling much better, and as the result was so promising I was glad to keep on using it. In about a month the soreness had entirely left my joints, I felt much better, and the catarrh was being carried out of my system."

MR. S. S. JOHNSON.

"I used Peruna for about two months before I was able to say that I was entirely well, but I have never regretted the money which I expended for it, for it has put me in perfect health."

Catarrh for Five Years.

Mr. S. S. Johnson, Greenville, Ill., writes:
"I was for five years troubled with catarrh. Two years ago I had one foot in the grave. I had tried seven doctors and also went to a catarrh specialist in St. Louis, and took several kinds of medicine a day. I could not walk more than a hundred yards without resting. My friends told me to take Peruna, and I did so. I now feel that Peruna has saved my life. It is the best medicine on earth, and I would not be without it."

The soothing spray of Ely's Liquid Cream Balm, used in an atomizer, is an unspeakable relief to sufferers from Catarrh. Some of them describe it as a Godsend, and no wonder. The thick, foul discharge is dislodged and the patient breathes freely, perhaps for the first time in weeks. Liquid Cream Balm contains all the healing, purifying elements of the solid form, and it never fails to satisfy. Sold by all druggists for 75c., including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

THE DOG LAW

"Any owner or harbinger of a dog, subject to be taxed, who shall fail or refuse to list same with the assessor, shall be fined in any sum not exceeding $10 for each dog he so fails or refuses to list for taxation; and any person who shall keep or harbor a dog upon his premises or elsewhere, and who fails or refuses to pay the tax thereon when due, shall be fined in any sum not exceeding $25 for each offence and upon conviction, the judgment may include an order requiring such dog to be killed, which order may be executed by any peace officer, who shall be allowed $1 therefor, to be taxed as costs. It shall be the duty of the sheriff and his deputies, and each constable in his district, to kill or cause to be killed any dog, the owner of which has failed or refused to pay the tax thereon when due, and for each dog so killed, without the order of a court, such officer shall be allowed by the fiscal court fifty cents, to be paid out of the dog tax fund. For the purpose of this act, the tax on dogs shall be considered due on the first day of March of each year: Provided however, The sheriff may collect such tax at any time and in such manner as taxes are now collectible by law."

The Court has ordered all dogs killed that the tax has not been paid on and if you have a dog you had better pay the tax at once.

AN ARMY MAN'S CLOSE CALL

BY BUFFALO BILL

FROM 'TRUE TALES OF THE PLAINS'

COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY WILLIAM F. CODY

ONE of the most thrilling personal experiences that I ever heard was that of Lieutenant De Rudio, who was cut off from Reno's command at the Little Big Horn and spent two days and nights filled with such narrow escapes and blood-curdling dangers as to make, under the conditions, the most callous man's hair stand on end.

In the fight he was guarding a pony crossing with eight men, when one of them said: "Lieutenant, get your horse—quick! Reno's retreating!" But as no trumpet had been sounded and no order had been given, he hesitated and waited for the call. As the men had seen the others retreating, they unceremoniously left, and De Rudio, seeing the guidon left behind, rode back to get it, which he did, but saw thirty-five or forty Indians coming. He dashed off, and they fired a volley; but, leaning low on his horse, he escaped them. He rode into the thick underbrush, when they fired many shots into the woods, the bullets cutting the branches all around him. He crossed the creek, scrambling up the bank, when suddenly he saw hundreds of Indians in front of him, not fifty yards distant, shooting at the retreating soldiers, with their backs toward him. He instantly saw that he was entirely cut off. While thinking how desperate a run for it would be, the thought of wife and children nerved him, and he was about to brave it when a young Indian about thirty yards distant on his right fired and killed his horse. The shot attracted the other Indians, and De Rudio jumped down the bank, hiding in an excavation, and several volleys were fired, so accurately seemingly that the Indians thought he must be killed.

A terrible yelling began among the Indians, and all at once the firing ceased. Peering out, he saw the cause. Captain Benton's column was coming over the hills and had attracted their attention, and he hoped that they would come near enough for him to join them, but in a few minutes they disappeared, and the Indians all started off in that direction. His command had evidently rallied, and they all got together, so his only hope was to crawl under the underbrush and get as near Reno's command as he could, which he could plainly see. At the same time there was a movement on another hill on the right, and he thought, "For the moment General Custer and some of his officers, and then they disappeared. While quietly going through the brush he heard a whispered "Lieutenant, Lieutenant!" Then he recognized Private O'Neill of G Troop and Gerard, Interpreter, and Scout Jackson. The two latter had horses, but O'Neill had been killed.

Gerard and Jackson would not desert their horses, fearing they would not be seen, as Indians were passing still around the bushes and so set fire to the timber. The smoke and flames forced them out of their hiding place just as Jackson and Gerard joined them, having left their horses where they first met, stuffing grass in their nostrils to prevent them from attracting attention. Wrapping their blouses around their heads, they succeeded in escaping into the thick brush along the bank of the creek. From here they saw that McDougall had joined Reno with the pack train. At the finish of the firing in the direction where Custer was hundreds of Indians returned, and the light on the hill was kept up all night. The two scouts got their horses and, with O'Neill and De Rudio holding their tails, decided to ford the river under darkness at the place where they had crossed in the morning. By making a detour round the Indians and out of sight. The fourth party came along and shouted to them in Sioux, and Jackson and Gerard cut loose and the two afoot dropped and hid in the sagebrush.

The Indians pursued the horsemen a short distance, firing shots at them, but did not see the two men in the sagebrush, although they passed in single file within three or four feet of them.

O'Neill and he reached the ford and decided to secrete themselves and wait until daylight. The moon came out but dimly, and they saw a party that looked like American cavalry, as they were on American horses and dressed in the soldier's uniform, the leader riding a sorrel horse with four white legs. He was sure that it was Captain Tom Custer. Elated, he cried out: "Ho, captain!" The rider stopped, and, although they could not see him, a fiendish yell and a volley of bullets told them they were Indians. They rushed through the brush, the Indians firing at the moving bushes volley after volley. Their escape was miraculous.

It turned out afterward that these Indians were firing spotted a bit of stratagem they had arranged to deceive Reno by dressing in the clothes of dead soldiers of Custer's command, and equipped with trailing colors and on American horses, they expected to deceive him in the night by pretending to be men of Custer's party. This being at the time of the Indian attack, they were not to be taken for the men of Custer's party. They were then they approached within five yards, and, evidently having seen them, one jumped from his horse, with De Rudio fired and dropped his head. O'Neill's carbine knocking the other one out of his saddle and killing him. The Indians in the hills saw the flash and puff and fired another volley in that direction, but the two desperate men hastily concealed themselves behind a big log which several bullets had struck. The bullets struck the ground within a few feet and even inches of them continuously.

Again the woods were fired at this point, but as it had been raining in the evening the smoke was stronger than the flames and was thus their salvation, and they hid in a deep part of the creek bed, behind a large log, and with their cartridges and firearms on the bank ready for action. They remained there in a little oasis of bushes until the fire had not touched, without moving, speaking, until 9 o'clock on the 26th of June. About 4 o'clock there were two signal pistol shots fired, the Indian volleys left his post at the ford and a loud voice was heard haranguing the Indians, and a band of three or four hundred passed closely and rode off. They could see them for miles down the river and heard them singing a peculiar chant. By 6:30 they had gone as far as they could see, and it was evident that something had happened, and they moved away, as it appeared to them that the troops must have also left the hill.

Hungry, exhausted and dispirited, their condition can be imagined—the command gone, and they a hundred miles from the Yellowstone river! However, when everything was quiet, in the dark night they started in the direction of Reno's retreat, and after about five miles they came to a high hill, from which they saw a fire. At times the fire disappeared, and they concluded that there must be human beings passing around it, but hid it occasionally from sight. But what kind of human beings—Indians or white? There was the rub. They crawled on with great caution, fearing the Indians would have to be crawled through even to reach Reno if it was Reno, when their hearts were raised by the braying of a mule. Still, he might be a captured mule, so they crept along on their bellies, and when they got so near that they heard voices talking in English. They crawled within a hundred yards of the visible party and called out to the picket who they were. De Rudio and O'Neill: "For God's sake, don't shoot!" A cheer from the picket, and in a few minutes the tired and famished survivors of many mental deaths were munching crackers and coffee with Captain Varnum.

De Rudio's reception by his comrades brings to mind the time when an army was drawn up in battle line to receive me.

I will refer to one of the press dispatches sent from Terry's command to give an account of this incident: "Our march now lay through a succession of abandoned Indian camps, showing that we were off the trail of the Sioux. The bleached bones of buffaloes and now and then the shaggy head of this monarch of the plains, testifying to the recent passage of Indian hunters, were met with from time to time scattered among the wigwags or temporary shelters made of saplings and tree branches, and so far no signs of the hostile Sioux were encountered. Our picturesque Crow and Cree allies had brought information of the near approach of the Sioux, and we were in hourly expectation that the savages would appear to disprove our progress. Plains scarred by deep canyons we passed which might conceal an army from view and yet were invisible at a few hundred yards distant. Right and left ran continuous lines of bluffs on either hand, offering positions that, defended by resolute and well armed men, would be almost impregnable.

Suddenly, while standing around a fire at a temporary stopping place, we were startled by a quick succession of unearthly yells, and soon after a band of Crows, painted hideously, burst into camp at full gallop. They reported 'heep Sioux' coming toward us, more Sioux than they had ever seen before. This was information expressed clearly in plain language, showing us the Sioux mounted and coming to cut our throats. The interpreter soon after arrived and confirmed our interpretation of the Indian sign language. Soon we were startled by a simultaneous rush of the Cree scouts, who announced the Sioux. The troops immediately formed in line of battle, and the scene was an animated one. Two companies of the Seventh cavalry, under Captain French and Lieutenant De Rudio, were to support the scouts in case of attack, the whole column was properly arranged as well as the difficult nature of the ground would permit.

"Our battalion of the Seventh cavalry, under Captain Weir, formed a mounted skirmishing line at full gallop, aided by the Second cavalry, drawn up in column on their flank under General Grisham and Lieutenant Lown's battery of three guns. The trains were closed up, and the companies of the Fifth infantry, under General Miles, the Sixty-sixth, under Colonel Moore, and the Twenty-second, under Colonel Otis, were extended along the flanks and moved in the rear as supports. For a few minutes all was expectation and anxiety.

"A single horseman advanced from the timber, and there was a muttered exclamation from many mouths. 'There they come!' As we strained our ears for the report of the first gun the horseman advanced toward the skirmishers, making signs of friendship. It proved to be Bill Cody, the scout, better known as 'Buffalo Bill,' dressed in the magnificence of the border fashion. He announced that we were in front of General Custer's command and that we might put off all bloody thoughts for that day. Such a reassurance probably no man ever received, as warm in greeting as we would have been the warmth of the reception of the hostile Sioux."

The Thundering Legion. In the year A. D. 171 a Roman legion made up wholly or in part of Christians fought under Marcus Antonius against the Marcomanian. The Roman army were shut up in a defile and ready to perish from thirst when a severe thunderstorm, with heavy rain, relieved them of their distress and a shower of stones and hail so terrified their enemies that a great victory was gained. The Christians attributed their deliverance to the prayers they had just put up, and considered it miraculous and the term "thundering legion" was applied to the soldiers.—New York American.

HOW ONE MAN SOLD HIS FARM

A Minnesota Farmer successfully tries new long-distance plan of selling.

FOURTEEN MEN IN SIX DIFFERENT STATES WANT HIS PLACE.

Makes sale without aid of real estate agent and doesn't pay a cent commission.

Cass, Minn., Special Correspondent.—The farmers in this section are intensely interested in a recent experience of one of their neighbors. Mr. H. St. John, who owned a farm in Cass county, has succeeded in selling it at a low price, without the help of a real estate agent and without paying a cent in commission. He could have sold the farm fourteen times over as much as he did for the price he received. In the course of a conversation with your correspondent, Mr. St. John said: "I sold my farm without any trouble, and I don't mind telling you just how it happened. I had heard that some farmers were selling their farms at low prices, and I thought I would try it. I wrote to some people for their plan and I received a letter from Mr. Darbyshire, the President of the Corporation, together with a copy of their booklet, fully describing a new and up-to-date method of bringing buyer and seller together. Their plan looked so simple and so sure that I decided to try it. I wrote to Mr. Darbyshire, and he sent me a letter with a description of my farm which they must have seen to prospective buyers all over the country. I received no less than fourteen letters from men who wanted my place, and these letters came from Iowa, Illinois, Mississippi, Wisconsin and Nebraska, and other States.
